

Save Loads – Drying with Natural Gas

NEWS TO USE

February 2014

Natural gas makes drying laundry economical and worry-free.

It's economical because a natural gas dryer is less expensive to operate than an electric model. Drying two loads costs the same as drying one load in an electric dryer. And, since the average family does 400 loads per year, the savings quickly add up.

It's worry-free because with natural gas, anytime is the right time to dry laundry. There are no time-of-use or peak rates impacting your monthly bill.

Helpful drying tips:

- Don't overload the dryer. Allow air to circulate freely.
- Don't open the dryer door unnecessarily, as it lets heat escape.
- Clean the lint screen after each load. A dirty lint screen can reduce air flow and be less efficient.

Have your natural gas dryer connected by a licensed contractor for a special rate. Check out Rebates & Promotions at www.swgasliving.com or call 1-800-654-2765. This special offer, available in most areas, also applies to range and barbeque connections.
